Air Fryer Baked Potato		4.5	43 mins	AF DF GF KF V	25.6k

- I like that the layout includes many options to filter recipes by, including by course, method of cooking, diet restrictions, and ingredients. The recipes are also displayed with an image with the cooking time, star ratings, and icons representing the categories/labels the recipe belongs to. I like the organization and the relatively simple layout without too many distractions.

2. Yummly

The screenshot shows the Yummly homepage with a clean, minimalist design. At the top left is the Yummly logo and a "Sign Up / Log In" button. On the left side, there's a sidebar with links like "My Feed", "Browse", "Pro Recipes", "Guided Recipes", "Articles", "Saved Recipes", and "About Yummly". A search bar at the top right says "Search 2M+ Recipes". Below the search bar is a section titled "PERSONALIZE YOUR EXPERIENCE" with the question "What are your favorite cuisines?". It features a row of circular icons for American, Kid-Friendly, Italian, Asian, Mexican, Southern & Soul Food, and French cuisines. A "Next" button is below this row. To the right, there's a link "Don't Personalize My Recommendations". The next section, also titled "PERSONALIZE YOUR EXPERIENCE", asks "Do you have any food allergies?". It shows icons for Wheat-Free, Dairy-Free, Peanut-Free, Tree Nut-Free, Sulfite-Free, Soy-Free, and Sesame-Free. A "Next" button is to the right. The final section, titled "PERSONALIZE YOUR EXPERIENCE", asks "Do you follow any of these diets?". It shows icons for Vegetarian (No meat, no eggs), Low FODMAP, Vegetarian (No meat, no dairy), Vegan, Paleo, Pescatarian, and a partially visible "KETO". A "Next" button is to the right.

The screenshot shows the profile page for "Real Mom Kitchen". At the top left is the logo for "Real MOM Kitchen". Below it is a bio: "Laura Powell is a busy wife and mom to three children, but she's also an awesome food blogger! She creates recipes for hectic families who strive to eat tasty, nutritious meals at home." Below the bio are social media links for Facebook, Twitter, Pinterest, and Google+. A "Profile Search" bar is above a grid of four recipe cards. The first card is for "Chicken Cordon Bleu" by REAL MOM KITCHEN, with 212 reviews and a 4.5-star rating. The second card is for "Banana Cream Pie" by REAL MOM KITCHEN, with 1k reviews and a 4.5-star rating. The third card is for "Decadent Chocolate Bundt Cake" by REAL MOM KITCHEN, with 232 reviews and a 4.5-star rating. The fourth card is for "Soft Pretzel Twists" by REAL MOM KITCHEN, with 237 reviews and a 4.5-star rating. Each card includes a small image of the dish.

- This site has a clean minimalistic style, which I find easy on the eyes. It also has options to filter by diet restrictions, food allergies, and type of cuisine. The recipes displayed include an image, the name, star ratings, and who created the recipe, linking to the creator's profile with all their recipes and a quick bio. It gives a nice personal touch.
